SUMMER VACATION

What did you do over summer vacation?

One week before school starts, janitor Randy Swanson and his two helpers Marty Baylor and Darren Mungerson look at the seemingly impossible task of being ready for the opening day of school.

John Hirsch works on his game to be ready for the start of the fall season.

Due to the removal of asbestos, the office staff, Mr. Schehl, Kaye Maertens, and Liz Hughes move to the grade school.

On a beautiful summer day, Rob Knox enjoys a game of tennis on the courts at College Square Park.

At the FFA fair, Mark Hoge shows the champion pair of barrows.

For their summer jobs, Tanya Strader, Mary Fuqua, and Alissa Carlson work in the concession stand at Hand Park.

During the summer park program, Amy Todd and Beth Van Meenen teach tumbling.

On a summer evening, the ball games at Hand Park attract Chad Hart, Laura Van Meenen, Candy Kappelman, Darcy Roehrs, Ami Hart and Amy Todd to cheer on the local Babe Ruth teams.

After the new insulation is blown onto the ceilings of the high school classrooms, Aaron Favri, Mike Anthony, and Todd Maertens are called on to clean up the mess left behind.

WAR!!

*Where were you on Jan. 16, 1991
at 6:00 p.m. ?*

The news that Desert Shield was now Desert Storm came just as the girls basketball game with ROWVA was about to begin. Many students move to the home ec room to watch television as newsmen are reporting the action from the scene with bombs going off around them.

Members of the SADD organization, Kristie Lievens, Sunny Schnowske, and Sharla Leander work on the flag cake for "Support the Troops Night".

To show support of U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf, Tanya Strader, Jo Hutchinson, and Joy Sheley tie yellow ribbons to car antennas.

Brian Swan keeps up with the latest news of action in Iraq and Kuwait by taking time from study hall to read Newsweek magazine.

At a basketball game, cheerleader, Amy Todd sings the National Anthem as a respectful crowd stands at attention. Every Viking team member wore a U.S. flag on his uniform during the entire crisis.

Patriotism was again popular. Many students proudly wore shirts supporting the United States and its involvement in the Persian Gulf. Left, Heather Maynard and Candy Kappelman wear patriotic t-shirts, while below Shea Weyland, Jamie Harden, Tami Walline, Candy Kappelman, and Amy Jeffries stand in front of the large flag banner in the entry hall.

The local chapter of the American Legion presents the colors for the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" before the Alexis game.

As the one hundred hour ground war comes to an end, Angie Gibson reads the latest news of the negotiations in the Times.

Art students, Veronica Sierra, Kelly Allen, and Krista Franck prepare their posters for display and judging.

After school, the pop and candy machines are a popular parting place for Richard Gargano and his money.

On weekends, Mary Fuqua finds she can improve her financial condition by baby sitting for $1.50 an hour.

Angie Gibson finds that her money soon disappears when she goes shopping for hair supplies.

Ordering a class ring is very expensive as Kelli Wexell discovers when she goes to order hers.

Pay day is always a happy day, just ask Aaron Favri as he collects his check from his boss, Mr. Jeffries.

Curt and his brother Matt DeSplinter, as do many other farm boys, earn their money by helping on the farm and raising livestock to sell and to show at fairs during the summer months.

Having your own set of wheels is not only a lot of fun but also a big expense if you have to pay all the bills to keep it running and looking nice according to Barry Stiner.

On her co-op job, Amy Stout works half days in the special education department as an aid to earn money for college and personal expenses.

Valentine's day, birthdays, anniversaries, and other special occasions can be expensive when sending that special person flowers and balloons. Above Mindy Matson and Angie Gibson check the latest arrivals on Valentine's day to see if there is anything there for them.

RULES

Were you caught breaking one?

Cutting up and writing in today's paper not only breaks a library rule, it is also very annoying for anyone trying to read the paper later.

During a noon hour basketball game, Tony Hahn hangs from the rim which is definitely against the rules and would be very expensive to have to replace.

Eating in the lobby is a no-no and Kala Franck, Sarah Dobbels, Amy Jeffries, and Shea Weyland know it, yet this is the rule most frequently broken by CHS students as discovered in our recent poll.

Jason Franck uses the office phone for a personal call so he won't have to use the pay phone. Over twenty percent of the students admitted breaking this rule.

Not only is it against the rules to be in the hall without a pass, there is also a three minute limit on all trips out of the classroom. John Hirsch, do you have a pass?

Knowing he's not to have pop in the gym, Mark Hoge thinks for a second and decides to take his pop in anyway and plans how he can talk his way out of any punishment if he is caught.

Shawn Maze, don't forget to leave your cap in your locker because you know it will be confiscated if you are caught wearing it in the building.

Taking advantage of the fact that they are seniors, Emily Montgomery and Kindra Whitehair try to cut into the lunch line.

Other rules that students admitted breaking were: arriving and leaving early, skipping, using profanity, going to the nurse to get out of a class, and getting pop and candy between classes.

WHAT'S NEW AT CHS

Did you notice these changes?

Enjoying the shade on a warm fall day, Brent Gustafson, Krista Franck, and Kala Franck sit on one of the new park benches in front of the school during their lunch hour.

On a winter Monday morning, Chad Nelson, Mark Hoge, Chad Erickson, Brian Cardona, and Darren Mungerson are surprised to find a new message center bulletin board in the front lobby.

Viking hats appeared at all CHS games, from the crowd at homecoming to the head of drummer Brady Stromquist in the pep band at a home basketball game.

This year the cafeteria started serving Pizza Hut pizza every Monday and, as another alternative for both the students and faculty, the cooks also prepared a soup and salad bar. Above, Sandy Spilker fills her salad bowl as Eric Hanson and LeAnna Ahring ponder their choices as they wait in line.

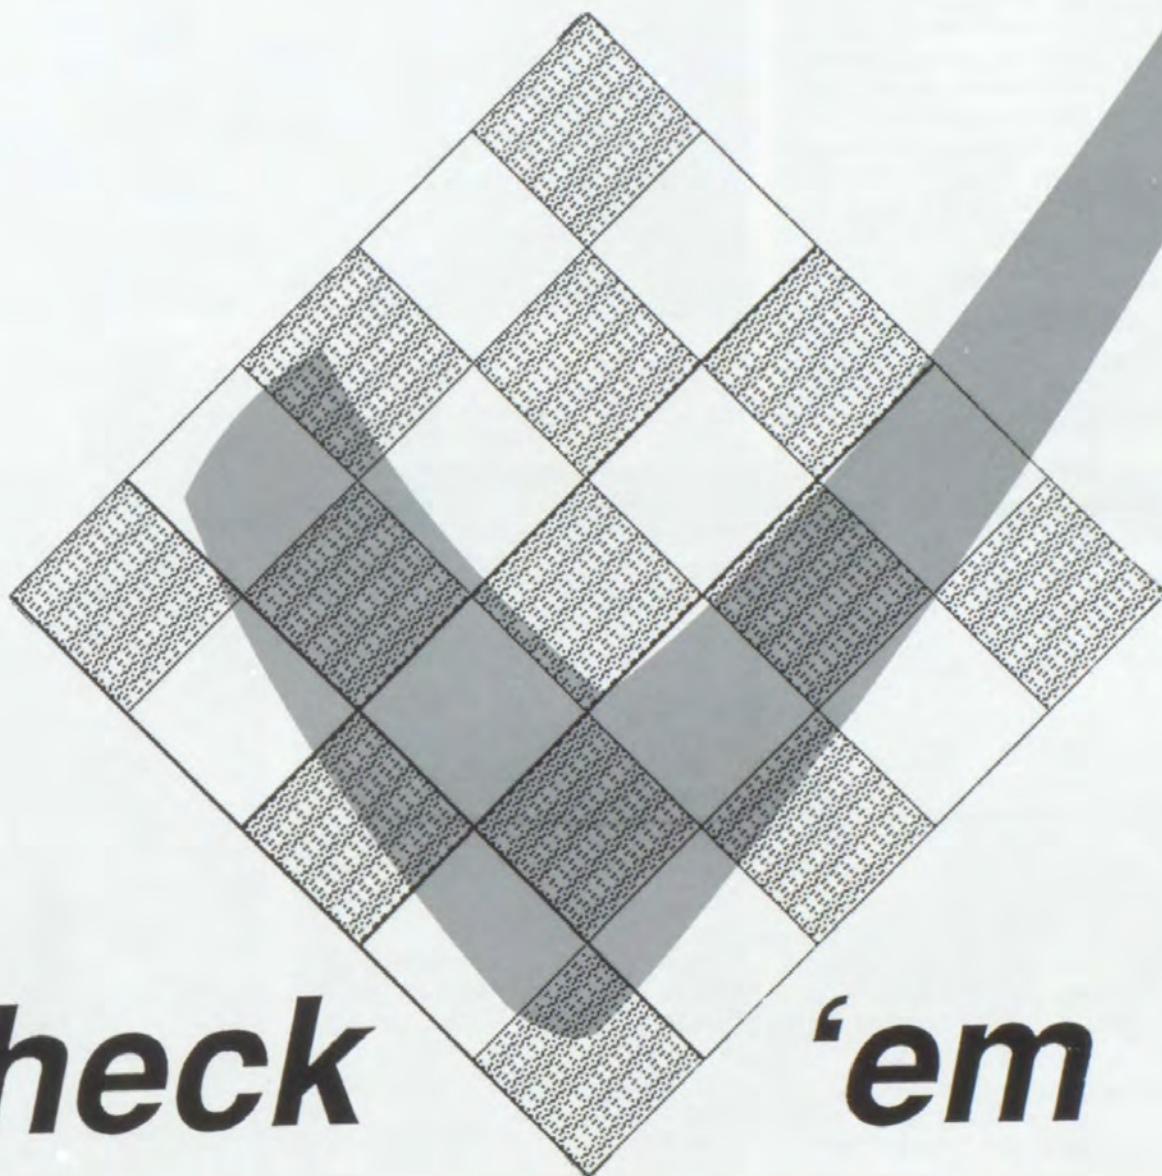

Just before Christmas, a strange van was parked behind the school every night. After vacation, everyone found out why. The Whittle Company had installed tv sets in all the classrooms and a satellite dish on the roof. Now every morning from 8:30 to 8:45 the students watch fifteen minutes of news designed for teens.

Kaye Maertens adds toner to the new copy machine which makes much clearer copies faster than the old machine.

FOOTBALL

When practice began in August, the Varsity squad had twenty players (11 juniors and 9 seniors). After conference games started, six sophomores also dressed with the varsity. The Vikings had another successful season with a 7 win and 3 loss record. The team was 6-1 in conference play and was Co-Champs with Alexis. This qualified the Vikings for their sixth straight berth in the State Class 1A Play-Offs. Three players made the All Conference team for both offense and defense. Representing the Cambridge offense were Mark Hoge (receiver), Derek Casteel (tackle), and Thad Boberg (defensive back). Two players, Nate Boberg (offense and defense) and Brady Stromquist (defense), made All Conference Honorable Mention.

The Vikings started the season with a bang. The Orion Chargers came to town and the Vikings came away with an impressive 33-0 victory. The Vikings then played a tough, state ranked Seneca team. The Vikings played hard, but were handed a tough loss. When the team went to ROWVA for their first conference game, they out rushed and out played the Tigers, but Cambridge was held on the goal line and the Tigers preserved their victory. Then Cambridge went on a tear. They won six games in a row including shut-outs against Westmer (Homecoming) and Alwood. One of the most exciting games of the season was the last conference game against Alexis. The Vikings led 14-7 with the clock running out. Then Alexis scored to make the score 14-13. When Alexis went for the win with a 2-point conversion, the Vikes played tough defense and stopped the try and got the win. The Vikings went into their play-off game against Annawan trying to extend their six game win streak. Annawan had other ideas. Cambridge got beat by the bigger Annawan squad and thus ended a very successful season for the Vikings. This season will long live in the memories of the players as well as their fans.

The Cambridge Fresh-Soph football team enjoyed an excellent season. They had a 6-2 record and a 5-1 record in conference which was good enough for second place in the Lincoln Trail Conference. Their most exciting game of the season was against Toulon. Cambridge was down 26-7 in the third quarter but they didn't give up. They scored three touchdowns in the fourth quarter, including a 64 yard touchdown pass and won the game 29-26.

The team was lead in tackles by Barry Stiner. Richard Gargano lead the team in rushing and was also voted MVP by his teammates. The Most Improved award was given to Chad Humphrey.

Not only did the team have a great season but they also gained valuable experience for next year when many of them will be playing on the varsity team.

JV VOLLEYBALL

The fresh-soph volleyball team had a difficult season this year. With only one coach for both the fresh-soph and varsity teams, it was difficult for the beginning players to receive the attention and instruction in basic fundamentals they needed to be successful. But, the girls didn't let that get them down. They tried their hardest no matter how bad the situation became. They showed a tremendous pride in their team and support for one another. The players ended their season with only one victory. In spite of their poor record, most of the girls enjoyed their experiences on the team and are hoping that next year their hard work will pay off with more victories.

The team awards were given at the fall banquet. The trophy for most valuable player was presented to Amie Wilson, and Patience Gardner was honored for being the high point server. The most improved player award was given to Terena Coziahr.

The 1990 girls' varsity volleyball team faced many challenges this year. First, the team knew that they would face many difficult opponents who had many more years of experience. Secondly, the returning seniors had a new coach this season. After three years with Coach Swanson, Coach Vandemore was a BIG change. However, after the first few weeks with Coach Vandemore, everyone adjusted to her "1990's" style of play. She pumped this enthusiasm into her players, and together they were victorious. Through endless practice and hard work, the team ended their conference play with a record of 4-3 and 8-14-1 overall.

Under Coach Karen Vandemore, an aggressive, offensive attack is what the Varsity team gave their opponents. With many good athletes, they had the personnel to play this style of game. The squad was very quick with good leaping ability.

The new style of play also brought more fans to the gym as they knew that each and every game would be exciting to watch. The number of fans also gave the players confidence. With this combination, the volleyball squad is looking for as exciting season next fall.

When the season ended, Coach Vandemore took her varsity team to the state volleyball tournament held at Illinois State University. Hopefully, this experience will inspire the underclassmen to set high goals for themselves next year. With spirit, cooperation, and positive attitudes, next year's varsity players will be successful.

GOLF

The CHS Golf team had one of its greatest seasons this year. They had a 10 win and 6 loss dual match record and in tournaments placed 12th at Monmouth, 3rd at Riverdale, 1st at Mt. Morris, 2nd at the Regional, and 6th at the Sectional.

When the team finished second at the regional tournament they earned the right to advance to the sectionals of the state tournament. This was the third year in a row that the team has reached the sectionals. Two individuals also excelled in state tournament action this season. Darren Mungerson and Rob Knox advanced from the regionals to the sectionals and Rob qualified for the state finals for the third year in a row. This made him the only Cambridge golfer to play in three state finals where he placed 14th this year. The Golf team broke the records for low Cambridge dual match team score and low team score at Valley View this season. The new record of 147 (3 over par for four golfers) was shot by Rob Knox with 32(-4), Darren Mungerson with 35(-1), Bret Bowman with 37(+1), and Chad Nelson with 43(+7). Rob Knox broke five individual records in 1990 including the low all-time 9 hole score with a 31(-5), low all-time season average and low senior average with 37.6.

CHEERLEADERS

This year the varsity cheerleaders continued the winning tradition established by previous squads. They received several team and individual awards from the International Cheerleading Foundation at Purdue University. They also received many ribbons and won the congeniality award, were grand champs in the small varsity division and were selected to compete in the International Open Cheerleading Championships held in Nashville between Christmas and New Years. Amy Dobbels, Amy Todd, and Beth Van Meenen were nominated for the COOG award, which are the most spirited for a day.

The Fresh-soph Cheerleaders went to a competition in Joliet Illinois. They choose to compete there because they thought it would improve and test their cheerleading skills. They competed in the Junior Varsity division and won first place which qualified them to perform and compete at Seaworld in Florida. They were unable to go because this contest was held during school time.

WRESTLING

The Viking Wrestling program was disabled by low numbers again this season. The team consisted of three seniors, one junior, three sophomores and six freshmen. Although they were out numbered, the upperclassmen provided good leadership. As a team, they placed seventh in the Viking Classic and twelfth in the Erie Holiday Tournament. Individually, Brady Strompuist placed 1st in the Viking Classic, 2nd at Erie, and 2nd in the Regional Tournament qualifying him for Sectional. Brent Hasson placed 4th in the Regional qualifying him as an alternate to Sectional. Pat Moody placed 4th in the Viking Classic, 5th in the Galva fresh-soph tournament, and 1st in the Viking fresh-soph tournament. Brady Stromquist who had the team's best record of 18-3 provided most of the highlights. He led the team in pins(7), takedowns(24) reversals(14), escapes(9), and nearfalls(16). Brady also finished his career tied for 5th on the school's all-time career win list with 60, and he set a new school record for team points with 380.

BASKETBALL

Once again the Cambridge Varsity Girls' Basketball team had a great season. This year's season started off perfect as the girls won the first annual Cambridge Invitational Tournament. The Vikes then went on an eight game winning streak. The streak came to an end when they met the physical ROWVA Tigers on their home court. The Cambridge girls were beaten decisively, but they did not let that get them down. They pulled themselves together as they entered the Indian Valley-Lincoln Trail Shootout held at Annawan High School. The deep desire that the girls had was seen in each of their faces as they won the championship game of that tournament.

The team's conference season ended tied for second in the LTC with a record of 18-3. Cambridge then played Galva in the first game of the Galva Regional. After an easy victory over the Wildcats, the girls got one more chance to show ROWVA what they could do. They gave it all they had, but it just wasn't enough to beat the state-ranked Tigers.

The season came to an end for the Varsity girls with a record of 19-4 overall and with two first place trophies from the tournaments they won.

This year's team brought the community back to the high school gymnasium to watch girls basketball. The Lady Vikes are very appreciative of the support that the community gave them. Without their assistance, they would not have accomplished all that they did during their excellent season. The girls are proud of their season, and the community is as well. This year's six seniors know that they have started a tradition that they hope will continue for several years to come.

The season started out slowly because the J-V team didn't have many players with high school experience. As a result of the first game, practice intensified as they now knew what to expect. Soon things began to fall in place and they started playing more as a team. As the season progressed, they all improved their individual and team skills and by the end of the season they were all playing better basketball. The J-V Vikings ended with an overall record of 12-6 and a conference record of 11-3. They were in the running for first place in conference, but ended up tied for second. Even though it was hard work, the team learned about the game of basketball.

The fresh-soph basketball team enjoyed a good season this year. They finished with an 11-11 overall record and a 9-5 conference record which was good enough for a third place finish behind Wethersfield and Toulon. The team had a rough start to the season because of its inexperience.

Out of the thirteen players, there were ten first year players. Once they learned the high school system their play improved.

The team was led in scoring and rebounding by Brian Cardona. Jarrod Grant led the team in free throw percentage.

Looking for an open shot, senior forward Rob Knox runs the baseline trying to escape from his defender so he can score during his last home game.

The Varsity boys basketball team, which consisted of six seniors and four juniors, experienced a rough season this year. They finished with an overall record of 6-18. They had a conference record of 3-11 that left them sixth in the league. A major problem for the team was injuries. Brent Gustafson had a bad back and Scott Bernier missed games because of a sprained ankle. Even though they weren't always on the winning side, the Vikings were always hustling and working hard.

The Vikings were led in scoring and rebounding by Mark Hoge, who also was voted M. V. P. Rob Knox led the team in free throw percentage. The Most Inspirational award was given to both Mark Hoge and Ted Dobbels.

After beating his man to the basket, Scott Bernier takes his shot in the lane.

During pregame introductions, Brent Gustafson gets "high fives" from his teammates.

Sophomore high jumper Shawn Maze attempts to clear the bar at 6'.

This was the first year that the boys track team was coached by Mr. Brown. While the team noted some changes, most things were the same as they have been in past years. The weather was the biggest opponent the team faced all year. It seemed that everytime it was time for a meet it would start to rain, the temperature would drop to near freezing, or the wind would start blowing excessively. Of course, there were those days when all three things happened at the same time. In spite of the weather, most of the meets went ahead as scheduled. While their overall record was not impressive, several individuals had excellent seasons. At the end of the season, Chad Humphrey (freshman), Shawn Maze (sophomore), Brian Swan (junior), and Brady Stromquist (senior) each received a trophy for being the high point scorer in his class.

During a home meet against Alwood, Brian Cardona hands the baton to Brent Hasson in the 200 meter relay.

With a commanding lead, Brady Stromquist rounds the curve and heads for the finish line.

On the home track, Mark Hoge wins the 3200 m run again.

Running his last 400 m race on the home track, senior runner, Thad Boberg, wins easily.

Homecoming

This year's theme was "Homecoming Around the World." Spirit week activities included: Monday, "International Day" and the noon hour activity was toilet paper wrapping; Tuesday, "Farmer/Cowboy Day" and the noon hour activity was beach ball volleyball; Wednesday, "Sock 'em, Box 'em, and Give 'em a Shiner Day" and the noon hour activity was Cool Whip eating contest; Thursday, "Dress-up Day" and the noon hour activity was skate board races; and Friday, "Maroon/White Day" and the noon hour activity was tug-of-war. Throughout all of Spirit Week the cheerleaders kept track of which class won each noon hour activity, and at the end of the week the Seniors won easily. The Viking staff asked Veronica Sierra and Eva Arnarsdottir, foreign exchange students, how they liked all of the Homecoming events and Veronica (left) replied, "it was weird and it was like nothing we've ever done in Mexico." And Eva (right) replied, "it was awesome, but nothing like I have ever seen."

On Saturday, for the parade it was a little windy but everything went as scheduled. The Junior float won the class competition using the theme "North, south, east, west Cambridge Vikings are the best!"

After being in the Cool Whip eating contest, Toby Sipp and Chad Hart hurry to wash before the bell rings.

At the bonfire, the team sits on the railing to watch the pom-pom routine.

On Wednesday of Spirit Week, Tami Wal-line, Mary Fuqua, Tanya Strader, Cassie Ruhnow, and Angela Erickson show their spirit by wearing boxer shorts.

In the Homecoming parade, the Viking Marching Band plays "Rockero" as they march down Prospect Street.

After the bonfire, the homecoming queen and king, Amy Stout and Mark Hoge go to the circus, which is setting up at the grade school, and get their picture taken with Jellybean the clown.

During Spirit Week, varsity cheerleaders Angela Erickson, Amy Dobbels, and Amy Todd dress in keeping with the theme of "International Day."

The Junior class wins the class float competition with their entry, "North, south, east, west Cambridge Vikings are the best."

Darren Dekezel, Brent Gustafson, Nate Boberg, Brady Stromquist, and Brent Hasson and the rest of the team pile up as they are introduced before the homecoming game.

The skydiver, carrying the game ball, lands on the field in time for the start of the game.

The cheerleaders form their last mount of the school song during the pregame.

Running with the ball, Nate Boberg is protected by Brent Hasson who blocks out a Westmer player.

Before the game on Saturday afternoon, there was an added attraction during the national anthem. From high in the sky came two skydivers from the Anthem Parachute Club carrying the flag and game ball.

It was a beautiful Saturday afternoon when the Cambridge Vikings went into action against the Westmer Warriors. The Vikings continued their string of homecoming victories when they defeated them with a final score of 15 to 0.

That evening the dance was from 7 to 11 pm. in the high school gym. Besides playing the music, the Dance Tonight Production also supplied lots of blinking lights and fog for those attending. At nine o'clock the official crowning of Amy Stout and Mark Hoge as queen and king of homecoming '90-'91 was held. They were crowned by last years royalty, Kelli Swanson and Bryce Reed and crownbearers, Katie Bates and Ryan Franck.

Amy Jeffries and Ami Hart wait for the band to play the song for their homecoming feature at halftime of the game.

and "I'm Gettin' Nuttin' for Christmas". For the last number Lisa Murdock and Kim Brennan created a skit that illustrated the words in the song.

Also the Brass Ensemble composed of: Darcy Roehrs, Amy Todd, Cherri Neuman, Monte Bottens, Brent Gustafson, Jarrod Grant, and Mark Hoge played "Go Tell it on the Mountain". A highlight of the program for the elementary students was a duet played by one of their teachers, Mrs. Hoge, and her son Mark.

Winter Formal

This year's Winter Formal Dance, sponsored by the FHA and FFA, was held on Saturday night, February 16th from 8-11 p. m. in the high school gym. The coronation was at 9 o'clock. On Saturday morning, members of the FHA arrived at the gym at 8:30 a. m. to put up the decorations which, in keeping with the theme of "Straight From the Heart," consisted of white balloons and red and silver streamers. Music for the dance that evening was provided by Tune-up-music. The cost of admission was $6 a couple. Before the dance, as has become tradition, most of the couples traveled to either the Quad Cities or Orion for a fancy dinner at the Jubilee, Bombay Bicycle Club, or the Factory.

Emily Montgomery, Eva Arnarsdottir, and Tanya Strader, enjoy refreshments in the cafeteria.

At the end of the dance, Jeremy Hepner dances with a streamer from the decorations around his head.

Before the dance, Candy Kappelman and Sharla Leander design sashes for the royalty.

Amy Todd and Kindra Whitehair dance to a current hit song.

Before the dance, Terena Coziahr, Tanya Hepner, and Amy Norbo stop at the door to get their picture taken.

Sadie Hawkins

The Sadie Hawkins dance sponsored by the F. H. A. was held on March 22nd. To get things ready for the dance, a committee, which consisted of Candy Kappelman, Amy Dobbels, and Darcy Roehrs was appointed to plan the obstacle course. These girls, along with Amy Todd also designed a picture backdrop.

When we asked the question: "What did you think of the dance?" we received these responses: Sunny Schnowske- "The dancing was great." Cory Lange- "It was the same as last year's dance. The obstacle course was great, because I won." Mary Fuqua- "I thought it was kind of boring." Mandy Lindbeck- "It was a lot of fun especially the obstacle course." Lonny Stahl- "The music needed to be louder and it needed to be darker. They also needed food."

Amy Norbo runs as fast as she can to beat her date through the obstacle course.

Brady Stromquist makes his way through the obstacle course as his date chases him.

At the end of the course, Laura Van Meenen and her date have a shot gun "wedding ceremony".

While going through the obstacle course, Curt DeSplinter jumps on the trampoline.

Freshmen, Shana Palmer and Chad Erickson dance the hours away at Sadie Hawkins.

Jason Wells, Keith Gradert, Jason Johnson, Darren DeKezel, and Thad Boberg wait patiently to be asked to dance.

Wearing their matching shirts, seniors, Mark Hoge and Amy Stout enjoy dancing to the music played by the d. j.

When the music stops, Doug Nuckles, Angie Gibson, and Kim Brennan chat about their plans for after the dance.

MUS-ART

Mus-Art is a good way to display the many talents of CHS students. This year the program was quite different compared to other years. While people were looking at the art work in the cafeteria, there were people singing solos at the same time. During the evening several awards were presented to students for their achievements during the year. The art award went to Kindra Whitehair, the choral awards to Darren Mungerson and Darcy Roehrs, and the band award to Monte Bottens. In addition to performances by the entire band and chorus, solos were performed by: Amanda Lindbeck, Candy Kappelman, Amy Todd, Laura Van Meenen, Amanda De Lellis, Travis Stackhouse, Monte Bottens, Allissa Carlson, and Mike Helke.

The John Philip Sousa award for excellence in band is presented to Monte Bottens by band director, Mr. Sheldon.

As people are browsing through the art displays, Alissa Carlson sings her solo, "Into the Night".

PROM

STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN

This year's junior-senior prom was again held at Jumers in Galesburg beginning at six-thirty on Saturday night May fourth. Following a welcome by the junior class president, Jeremy Hepner, and a response by the senior class president, Beth Van-Meenen, everyone enjoyed a delicious buffet dinner. After the tables were cleared, the rest of the evening was spent dancing to the music provided by Dean Resser, a DJ from Geneseo. At nine o'clock, the king and queen, Brady Stromquist and Beth Van-Meenen, were crowned by last year's royalty, Kelly Swanson and Mike Leander.

When the dance was over at eleven o'clock, the fun continued at an after prom party at the YMCA. There guests could swim, play games, watch television, eat and win prizes that had been donated by area businesses.

F. H. A.

This year the FHA was again very busy. With fewer active members, everyone had to accept more responsibility in order to complete their many projects. As soon as school started they immediately had to start work on plans for the fall rally that Cambridge hosted.

With winter and the start of the second semester, plans had to be made for the winter formal dance and the Sadie Hawkins dance that they sponsored.

As soon as the winter snows melted the FHA members began planning and making arrangements for their annual trip. This year the destination chosen was Galena. While the weather didn't cooperate that day, all the members that went enjoyed touring a bed and breakfast inn and a candy factory.

Their last event of the year was the mother/daughter banquet. The buffet dinner at the Deck was followed by a style show with fashions from J. C. Penney at Southpark modeled by the seniors, mothers, and Mrs. Rumley.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA OFFICERS: Mrs. Rumley - Advisor, Dawn Knueppel - President, Danyelle Schnowske - Historian, Laura Van Meenen - Treasurer, Emily Montgomery - Vice-president, Ami Hart - Encounter Chairman, Theresa Craig - Point Chairman, and Becky Swiger - Secretary.

S. A. D. D.

This year the SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) organization welcomed many new members. This organization has one main purpose, to get the message to everyone not to drink and drive. It doesn't mean not to drink, but if you do drink, don't drive. Drinking and driving do not mix.

This group sponsored assemblies during the year. One was Mrs. Sheryl Thompson who came and talked to the group about the loss of her son who was hit by a drunk driver. The SADD organization also brought Mike Smith, a motivational speaker, to our school. He discussed the importance of self-confidence and self-esteem. Invited guests from many area schools packed the gym to hear Mr. Smith. Later that afternoon he spoke to the teachers and that evening he talked with parents.

Another project the members of SADD accomplished this year was to make a giant cake in the form of the U. S. flag to serve everyone who came to the basketball game on "Salute the troops night".

As a fund raiser, on Valentines Day each year SADD members sell carnations symbolizing love and friendship. SADD officers, Becky Swiger and Tanya Strader are on their way to deliver carnations to some lucky student.

SADD Officers: Alissa Carlson (Treasurer), Tanya Strader (Secretary), Becky Swiger (President), Lola Holiday (Vice-President).

On "Salute The Troops Night", Racheal Vinavich, Becky Swiger, and Lola Holiday serve cake to everyone at the game.

Terena Coziahr, Tanya Strader, and Crista Wells work on the stars of the giant flag cake the SADD members will serve that night.

SADD members, Lola Holliday, Becky Swiger, Amie Wilson, Karen Allen, Kristie Lievens, and Jennifer Dole throw candy and deliver their message, "Think before you drink!" as they march in the homecoming parade.

STUDENTS AGAINST DRUNK DRIVING

Sponsored by the local chapter of SADD, Mike Smith entertains over six hundred students from Cambridge, Alwood, Wethersfield, and ROWVA as he delivers his message and answers the question "Why?".

Following his presentation to students, Mr. Herges and Miss Vandemore, SADD sponsors, thank Mr. Smith and discuss the agenda they have planned for him for the rest of the day.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council early in the year began work on plans for homecoming. After a theme had been selected, they started work on organizing the election of the court and deciding on the decorations for the gym. As soon as homecoming was over the council members began work on the second annual Octoberfest. This year students were again served butterfly pork chop sandwiches and bratwurst to the music of the now famous Cambridge High School Polka Band. As the year progressed, council members were asked for their input on various problems that occurred and were pleased when their ideas were accepted by the administration. Next year's officers are hoping to be even more involved in setting policy for CHS.

Darcy Roehrs volunteers to help Student Council member Candy Kappelman decorate the gym for the homecoming dance.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS: Candy Kappelman, Mandy Lindbeck, Jarrod Grant, and Rob Knox - President.

NAHS

This year the National Art Honor Society (NAHS) had some fund raisers to help pay for their trip to Chicago and they included poster sales of fine art prints, candy, and food stands. On their trip, they visited the Art Institute of Chicago where they saw a special exhibit "High & Low: Modern Art & Popular Culture." They also went shopping at Water Tower Place and later that afternoon they went to the Candlelight Dinner Playhouse to see "Chorus Line."

The Galva and Alwood chapters joined the local chapter in a candlelight induction ceremony for new members which was held at the Galva Hotel. The guest speaker was John Sloan, creative director for Ross, Inc.

NHS

Membership in the National Honor Society (NHS) is one of the highest honors that can be awarded to a high school student. If, at the end of the first semester of a student's junior year, they have a GPA of 90 cumulative they may apply for membership in the NHS. Selection is then made by the faculty council on the basis of scholarship, service, leadership, and character.

This year the installation ceremony for new members was held on Wednesday, April 3, 1991 at 7 p. m. at The Deck Plaza in Geneseo. The keynote address was given by Mr. Albert G. Smith. The officers, Darren Mungerson-President, Beth Van Meenen-Vice-President, Mindy Matson-Secretary, and Dawn Knueppel-Treasurer, were in charge of the program.

BAND

This was the first full year the band was under the direction of Mr. Sheldon and he had a busy schedule planned for them. First there was band camp in the heat of August. This was soon followed by marching band performances at home football games, open house, and parades and competitions in Kewanee and at the University of Illinois.

During the winter months the concert band performed at the Christmas concert and had an all bands concert. The pep band played at all home basketball games and several individuals and groups participated in the solo and ensemble contest at Cuba City.

The last performances by the band were at Mus-Art and in the Memorial Day parade.

During the second annual Octoberfest, band members, Monty Bottens, Mr. Sheldon, Ted Dobbels, Jarrod Grant, Darcy Roehrs, Mark Hoge, Rachael Vinavich, and Tracey Vinavich entertain.

Members of the flag team perform a routine with the band at halftime of the homecoming game.

Mr. Sheldon directs the concert band in their final number at the Christmas concert.

Percussion players, Kindra Whitehair, Brady Stromquist, and Chad Erickson keep the cadence as the band marches in the Hog Festival Parade in Kewanee.

Trombone players, Ted Dobbels, Jarrod Grant, and Brent Gustafson are featured in one of the numbers at the winter band concert.

The saxophone section of the pep band, Chad Nelson, Lance Edmund, LeAnna Ahring, and Shana Palmer play the school song between the jv and varsity basketball games.

Chorus

This year the concert choir was very busy from the first month of school through May. Immediately after school started, Mrs. Daniels began preparing the choir for their first public appearance at parents night open house. As soon as they had that performance behind them they began practicing Christmas music for their performances at the concert and grade school. During the second semester, they had to prepare not only for the solo and ensemble contest but also the musical and spring concert. Due to a late season snow storm, the spring concert had to be cancelled because there were no open dates on the school calendar. They ended the year with their performance at the Mus-Art program.

Amy Todd steps forward to sing a solo part in one of the choir numbers at the Christmas concert.

On the choir trip to Circa 21, Laura Van Meenen, Shea Weyland, Sarah Dobbels, Amy Todd, Angela Erickson, Erica Leander, and Alissa Carlson enjoy the lunch served to the workshop participants.

Freshman, Amy Jeffries is a little nervous as she sings "Away Over Yondro", in her first experience at solo and ensemble contest.

The boys ensemble, Darren Mungerson, Mark Hoge, Travis Stackhouse, Brent Gustafson, Courtney Stone, Jarrod Grant, and Eric Hanson, practice "Barbershop Blues".

The high school choir sings and performs to, "I'm Getting Nothing for Christmas", at the grade school Christmas concert.

Bonnie Talbott accompanies the choir as Mrs. Daniels directs them in their opening performance for parents at open house.

Pom Pons

The Pom-Pon squad began their season by attending a summer camp at ISU. At camp the girls learned many different kinds of body rock, novelty, and high kick routines. This year the squad consisted of four seniors, one junior, seven sophomores, and five freshmen. The two captains, Lisa Murdock and Kindra Whitehair, had a lot of patience teaching the inexperienced members new routines step by step. With many seven a.m. practices, all of their routines went smoothly.

The highlight of this season was the arrival of their new uniforms and poms. In order to raise money for their new poms a few members of the squad went over to Mr. Caras' house and helped decorate it with Christmas lights.

Several members of the squad visit radio station 98.9 and D.J. Mike LeBaron.

Performing their first routine of the season, the 1990-91 pom squad entertains the crowd and the homecoming pep session.

Senior Danyelle Schnowske moves to the beat of the routine, Numero Uno, before the home crowd at the last basketball game of the season.

Captain, Lisa Murdock leads the squad in their first routine in their new uniforms.

To earn money to cover camp expenses for the squad, Tracey Vinavich sells cake raffle tickets in the lobby before the basketball game begins..

At the end of the season pizza party at Pizza Hut, advisor, Jayne Siemert, hands out awards to the squad members.

VIKING STAFF

At the beginning of the school year there were only two members on Viking Staff, Jarrod Grant and Amy Jeffries. But after about a month they were joined by three new people, Tanya Strader, Tami Walline, and Keri Taylor. At the start of second semester Johnill Cauwels and Melanie Schumaker were added to complete the staff.

At the beginning of the school year, Amy Jeffries and Jarrod Grant attended a yearbook workshop at Geneseo High School. After a morning of instruction on how to draw layouts, there was a contest for the best layout and Jarrod won honorable mention. For that he received a pair of sunglasses, which he is modeling in his picture on the next page.

To raise money for the production of the yearbook and reduce the cost to students, the Viking Staff runs the food stand at home football games and also gets the profits from the pop and candy machines.

This year's staff invites you, the reader, to "Check Us Out" as you "Check Out" the highlights of the '90-'91 school year.

Keri Taylor waits for a turn on the computer so she can enter the copy for the sophomore pages.

Poring over a pile of pictures, Tami Walline tries to decide which ones to use.

Melanie Schumaker makes her selection of what pictures should go on the girls basketball page.

With her first page complete, Johnill Cauwels happily puts it into an envelope to mail to the printer.

"Lucky" Jarrod Grant returns from workshop with his new shades on.

Using a company idea book to help her, Amy Jeffries creates a layout for the winter formal pages.

F. C. A.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) was active throughout the year. During the month of June, Amy Todd and Mandy Lindbeck went to a leadership camp in Colorado. To welcome new members and to get reacquainted after the summer, the group had a swimming party at the home of their advisor, Mrs. Roehrs. Other social activities held throughout the year included: a wiener roast at Candy Kappelman's house, a pizza party at Pizza Hut after a football game, sledding, going to a Quad-Cities Thunder basketball game, and an end of year picnic. Also the group held meetings where they discussed topics of interest to teens like: "Who is God?" where they studied other religions in the world, "Crisis in today's world" was the topic during the time of the war in the gulf, and at Christmas their topic was "Christ is the light of my life" at which time they collected and donated food to the local food pantry.

At the FCA swimming party held at Mrs. Roehrs house some girls fight over who gets the raft next.

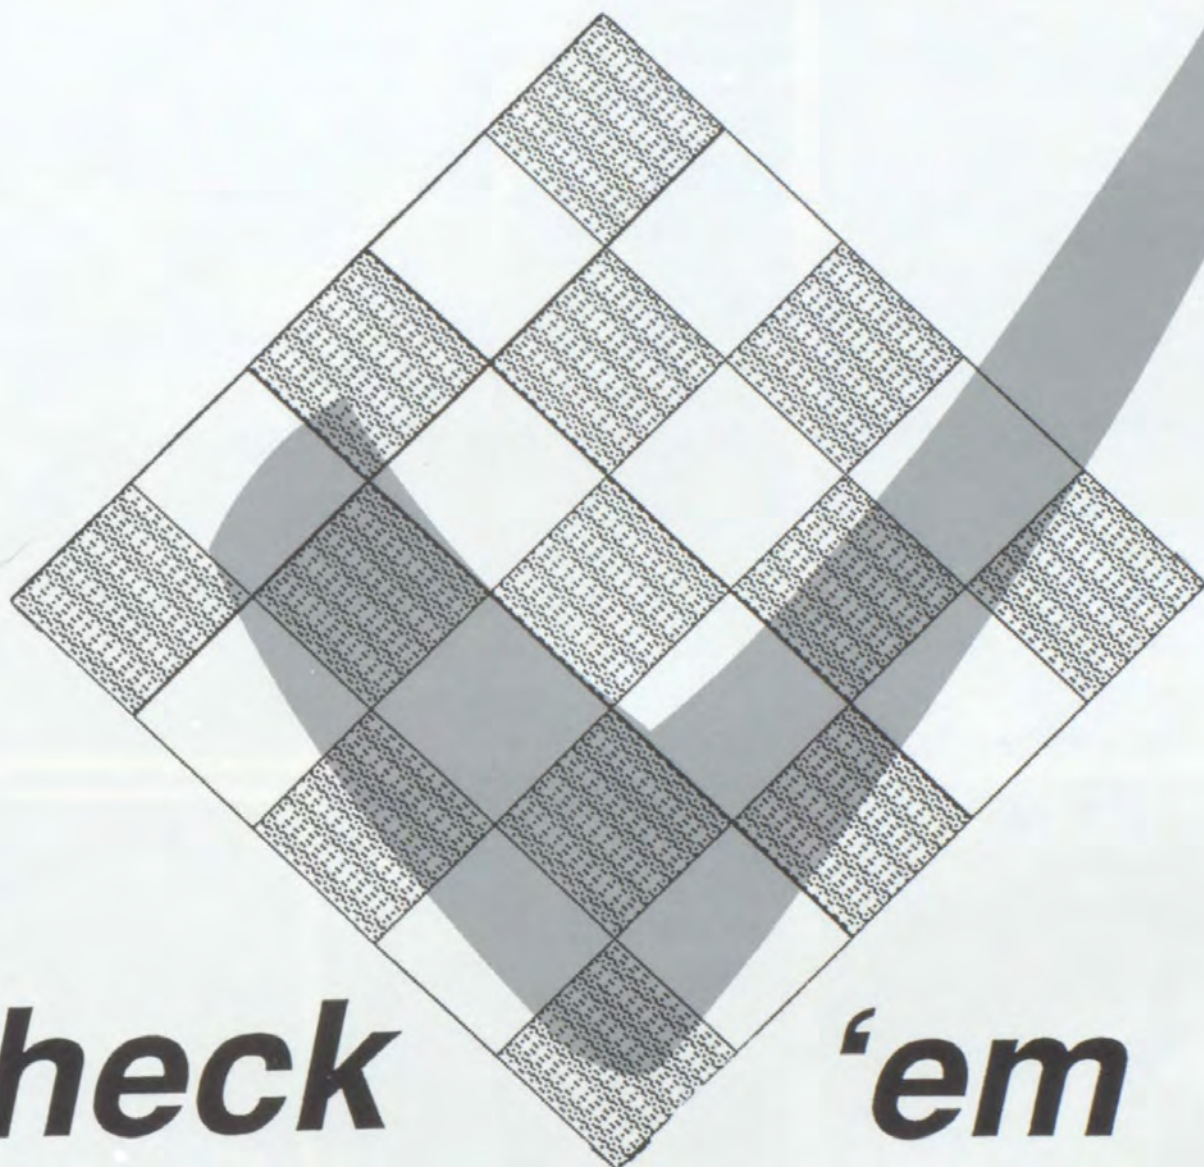

FCA OFFICERS: Jeremy Hepner, Mandy Lindbeck, Candy Kappelman, Amy Todd, and Darcy Roehrs.

In June of 1990 Amy Todd and Mandy Lindbeck attended a leadership camp at Estes Park in Colorado.

GRADUATION

On Saturday night, June 1 graduation exercises were held for forty-six seniors in the high school bowl. After the invocation by the Reverend Thomas Thompson, welcome and honor addresses were given by Monte Bottens and Mindy Matson. Following the singing of the class song, "Imagine", Beth Van Meenen spoke as the class representative. Then Mr. Schehl presented awards to several seniors and Darren Mungerson gave his honor address. Next, Mr. Caras presented the class to the representatives of the school board, Mrs. Gradert, Mr. Matson, and Mr. Van Meenen, for the presentation of diplomas. Following the benediction and recessional, the graduates were greeted by their many friends and family who had come to share this special night with them.

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance", graduating seniors, Kelly Allen and Amanda DeLellis march across the football field to the stage for the one hundred seventeenth annual commencement program at Cambridge High School.

Before graduation, Kim Brennan is too nervous to hook the top of her gown so she gets help from her friend, Amy Stout.

Monte Bottens welcomes the large crowd that has gathered to see the class of 1991 graduate.

During the recessional, honorary ushers, Amy Todd and Amy Dobbels present class flowers to graduates, Scott Colter and Becky Peterson.

Ted Dobbels is all smiles as he finally receives his diploma from school board president, Les Matson.

In the receiving line, graduates, Chris Frisk and Mike Prevost happily await well-wishers after they have checked to be sure their diplomas are signed and really have their names on them.

In spite of the hot, humid weather, the rain stayed away and members of the class of '91 were able to hold their graduation outside. Following the ceremony, Sarah Dobbels makes a trip through the receiving line and congratulates Dan Nimrick and Lisa Hazlewood.

As a member of the top ten percent of her graduating class, Mindy Matson gives an honor address during commencement.

Class representative, Beth Van Meenen tells the crowd about the many accomplishments of the class of '91 during their four years at Cambridge High School.

At the end of his honor address, Darren Mungerson leaves with "and high-fives all around".

On a chilly fall afternoon, most of the senior class gathers at "Booze Bridge", for a picture.

It was definitely a successful year for this traditional, yet full of character class. They carried on the football tradition when the team qualified for the sixth consecutive year for the state playoffs. Individually, Thad Boberg was a state qualifier in football and golfer, Rob Knox, qualified for state competition for the third time.

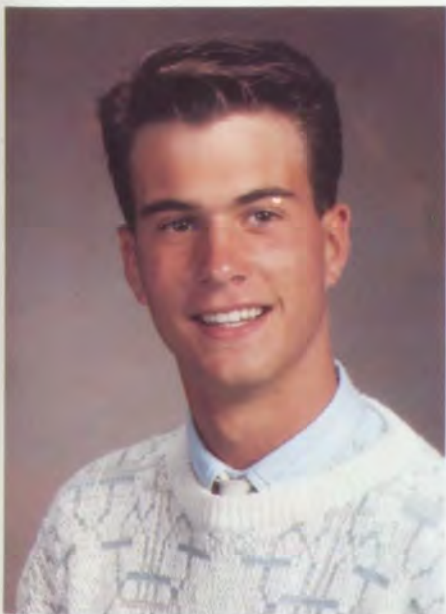

This class was small, but they have had a big impact on CHS. Not only have they achieved great things in athletics, but in academics as well. There are seven Illinois State Scholars in the class, Lisa Murdock, Mindy Matson, Darren Mungerson, Ted Dobbels, Monte Bottens, Rob Knox, and Mike Prevost.

The class of '91 possessed many admirable qualities. They had a friendly attitude towards each other as well as the other classes and strived to be the best they could be. They deserve all the credit and praise they have earned. The end of the year, for some seniors, was a time of sadness while others were thinking of it as a new beginning, a time to check out new experiences, places, and opportunities. A chance to become whatever they choose. As their class motto says, "What we are to be . . . We are now becoming."

EVA & VERONICA

This year Cambridge High School was privileged to have two foreign exchange students enrolled. Through the ASSE International Student Exchange program, Veronica Sierra, from Monterrey, Mexico and Eva Arnarsdottir, from Reykjavik, Iceland came to CHS for a year.

Veronica lived with Amy Stout and her family throughout the entire school year. She was an active participant in many school activities, she sang in the chorus and was a member of the girls basketball and track teams. Following her graduation from Cambridge High School, Veronica plans to return to her home and attend college there next fall. Eva also came to CHS under the ASSE program from her home in Iceland. At the beginning of the school year, she lived with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peterson. After she became better acquainted with the students at CHS, she moved to the home of Tami Walline's family. Then during the second semester she stayed with Angie Carlson and her family.

Eva Arnarsdottir and Veronica Sierra have adjacent lockers in the second floor hall.

JUNIORS

This year's Junior class was quite small with only thirty-four members, but that didn't keep them from being a strong and united class. It just meant that everyone had to work twice as hard to achieve satisfactory results on test scores, homecoming floats, and planning prom.

All the class members and their parents tried to do their share of the work to raise money for this year's prom. This included working at concession stands during the basketball season and selling butterfly pork chops at all the football games.

Being an upper classman meant no more getting made fun of, and no more being on the receiving end of jokes. To some, it meant playing varsity sports and earning varsity letters. Others joined the work force and found they had little time for school activities. To most, it meant a serious time to think about what they wanted to do in the future. No matter what their decisions might be, the time to plan was now.

At the homecoming pep assembly, Travis Stackhouse can't believe that he is actually appearing in public in his mother's cheer-leading outfit.

On college and career day, Denise Rannow waits her turn to sign up for information from a technical school.

Lola Holliday, Amy Todd, Becky Swiger, and Holly Usrey discuss their prom plans over lunch.

SOPHOMORES

"No longer a shmen!" That's pretty much how every one would describe sophomore life. Oh, and let's not forget about getting your license, that's every sophomores highlight. Some are lucky enough to get some type of automobile when they get their license so they have wheels of their own.

As sophomore's many start looking forward to things such as prom, playing varsity and being an upperclassman. Being a sophomore definitely has its advantages. One no longer has to hear the word "Shmen" and getting parents permission to stay out later is definitely easier.

Things just seem easier as a sophomore like sports, school subjects, and high school life in general. One sophomore was asked, what the best thing about his sophomore year was and his response was, "Getting my license by far." That would probably be everyone's response, except for those few unlucky people who are too young and will have to wait yet another year.

While driving might be the most important event in the life of a sophomore, they are also learning that with the added privileges, go added responsibilities. They are given more choices in courses offered, are expected to show leadership on the playing field as well as in the classroom, and many are experiencing their first jobs away from home and are having to learn to budget their money more carefully. The sophomore year may not be the most exciting year of their high school careers, but all sophomores are starting to mature, and as they do so, many old ways and some friendships are gone forever and are replaced with new ideas and plans for the present and the future.

Since this year's sophomore class is one of the larger classes by CHS standards, it has given them a chance to excel in music, FFA judging teams, athletics, and in the classroom.

FRESHMEN

Can you imagine forty-six freshmen all trying to get to their classes without getting lost. Sound familiar? Well, that's what all of the freshmen did on their first day of school.

Most of the freshmen class was involved in sports. And all freshmen were kept busy attending games and matches, studying, practicing, and enjoying their new freedoms and responsibilities as high school students.

Has your freshmen year been better or worse than you thought it was going to be? Why? We asked one freshmen and her reply was "It has been better because I thought everyone was going to be looking down on me but instead they were all nice, and welcomed me into high school and showed me around." Another freshmen's reply was, "It was better because we have more freedom and responsibilities." Over all the freshmen year has been a memorable one for all of them and they are anxiously awaiting the challenges their sophomore year will offer.

Now it is time for us on the Viking staff to "check out" for the year. It seems like only yesterday we were sitting around trying to come up with a theme for this year's edition of the Viking. We have tried our best to "check out" all phases of life here at CHS. At times, it seemed like an impossible task, as we all have different interests, personalities, priorities, and responsibilities. It is our hope, that as you read these pages your memories of the 1990-91 school year will be renewed and maybe you will be reminded of some things that you had forgotten.

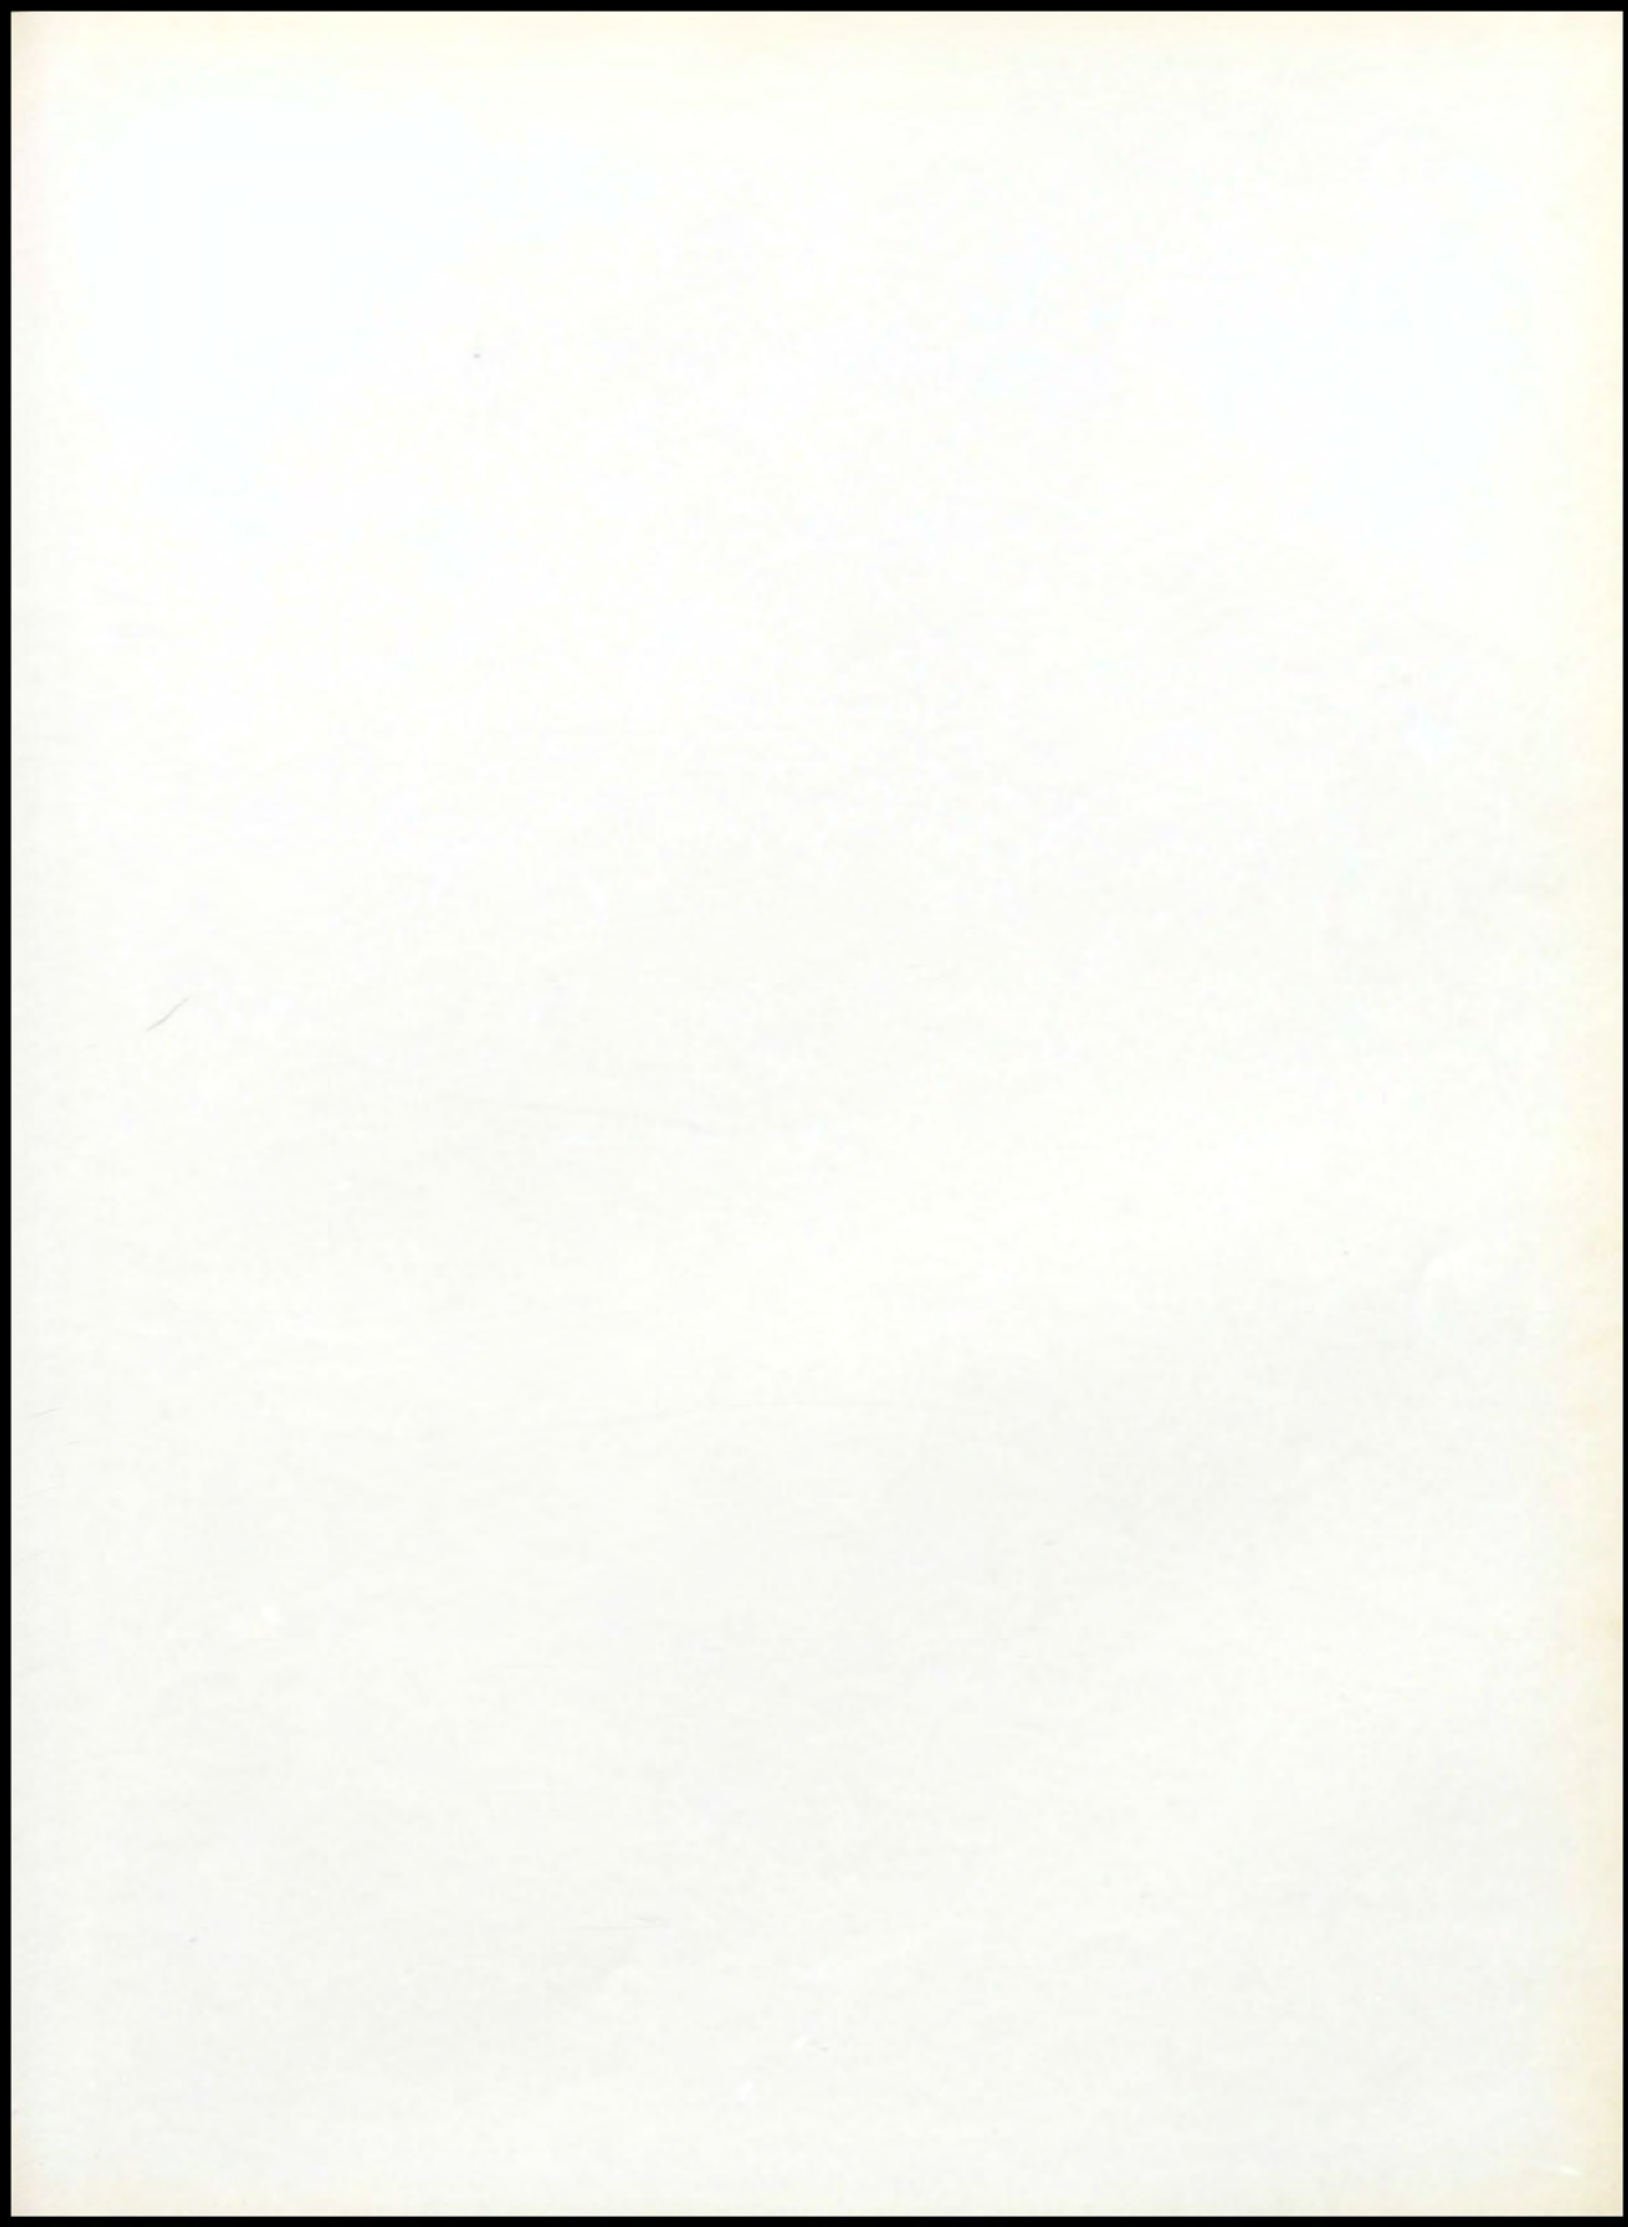

At this time, we would like to thank some of the people who helped us create this memory. First, a special thanks to Mrs. Stromquist, who not only took many of the pictures used on these pages, but also made many trips to Geneseo to pick up and deliver pictures and film. Then, as in years past, we must thank Photographic Arts for not only supplying and processing our film, but also for giving us fast service when we were faced with a deadline. Our next thank you goes to the publishing company, Walsworth, and their representative, Mr. Hawk for helping us make our ideas realities. And, our last thanks go to our advisor, Mrs. Decker, for helping us all through the year and for being the last one to "check out" of school.
